Acoustic Triumph of Amaral at Julio Iglesias auditorium

Amaral at Julio Iglesias auditorium in Benidorm.

The musical group from Zaragoza put the end to Benidorm Summer Nights

Amaral sounded and shone last night at Julio Iglesias auditorium in l'Aigüera Park in Benidorm despite the reduced capacity, limited to 400 people, by the regulations of the Ministry of Health.

Eva Amaral and Juan Aguirre have known how to adapt their melody to the exceptional situation we are living with a proposal that convinced fans of Spanish music. The auditorium, adapted and limited by the Department of Events coordinated by Jesús Carrobes to the exceptional situation, was small before the brilliance and artistic solvency of the musical duo from Zaragoza who, from the first minute, empathized with the public.

Over a little less than two hours, Amaral made the scene of their own. From there the duo show their successfully catalog of melodies, based on their latest work, 'Salto al color', stripped of the electronic packaging, according to many, improved after the acoustic metamorphosis. During the evening there were also nods to the past, with "El universo sobre mi", the second theme of the night, or "Peces de colores" and many more.

With his last concert proposal (for the moment), Benidorm Summer Nights, Amaral demonstrated the high level of one of the most solid proposals of national rock that, despite the lack of forcefulness of their absent band, the duo knew how to contact with the public who awarded with their applause the effort and work by Eva and Juan.
